Dr. Kenealy, in a recent speech in the House of Commons, declared that "the penny press was the devil's right hand."

According to the Pekin Gazette, the telephone was invented by Kung Fo Whing, who flourished in the 10th century.

Palestine is not a holy land—at least not the town by that name in Texas—for its jail contains to-day nine persons charged with assassination.

New Orleans has at present a population of only 210,000, which, however, is steadily increasing by emigration from France, Italy, and Germany.

Texas claims to have three millions of inhabitants, and to be the third now in population and the first in size among all the States in the Union.

Potato beetles are blown out into Lake Pontcharc, Mass., and eaten by perch and bullheads; but they poison the fish, which are dying in great numbers.

Ten selected head of three-year-old cattle, of an average weight of 2,178 pounds, have just been shipped from Paris, Ky., for Paris, France, to take part in the show.

Some Irishmen display conceit in their adopted nomenclature, and some humility. Dr. Lardner, for example, was christened Dennis, which he promptly expanded into Dionysius. Boucicault, who was christened Dionysius, abbreviated himself into simple Dion.

The Burlington Hawkeye, in reply to a dissatisfied subscriber, says: "We are glad to assure you that we do not run this paper as a matter of business, but merely as a blessing to the community and a source of pleasure and profit to our friends. We would not willingly write a word to offend anyone, even Stanley Matthews or the President. No subscriber can truthfully complain of the Hawkeye in this respect, and if any subscriber finds a line in his paper that he does not like and cannot agree with, if he will bring his paper to the office and point out the offending line, the editor will take his scissors and cut it out for him."

The Ogden Freeman boldly asserts that the present Indian war has been incited by Mormon missionaries, whose object is to keep the settlers out of the fine valleys in Canas prairie opened up by the extension of the Ogden and Northwestern railway till the Mormons themselves can take possession of them. It says: "Mormons are never molested by the Indians; it is only non-Mormons who are killed." The Freeman declares that the whole campaign, foreseen months ago, has been planned by the Mormon priesthood, who publicly proclaim that the savages are the lost tribes of Israel; that thousands of them have been baptized in the Mormon faith and sworn to go forth to fight the whites, who are their enemies and the enemies of the Mormons, and that there is a system of secret oaths, signs and pass-words existing between the saints and savages, perfected by years of labor by the Mormon missionaries.

Was It a Woman?

Tuscarora, in the state of Nevada, has lately been the scene of a most remarkable occurrence. A person known as Samuel M. Pollard courted and married a young woman of good family and reputation named Marancy Hughes. Marancy, after living with Pollard six months, went back to her parents. She stated that Pollard was a woman, who, from motives connected with her previous career, had assumed male attire, and married her partly as a cruel jest, and partly in order to better maintain her assumed character. Marancy also said that Pollard had deterred her by threats from previously making known the facts, and when some doubt was expressed as to the truth of her astonishing story, Marancy went before a justice of the peace and made affidavit to it. Pollard asserted that he (or she) belonged to the male sex. Pollard was a rested, but all who expected an explanation of the singular affair were disappointed by the reconciliation of Marancy and her husband in court. But still the Tuscarorans believe that Pollard is a woman.
